INTRODUCTION

The House of Representatives created the Select Committee on Reconstruction on July 3, 1867, when it adopted the following resolution, which had been submitted by Representative Thadeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania:

> "Resolved that a committee of nine be appointed to inquire what further legislation, if any, is required respecting the acts of March 2, 1867, or other legislation on reconstruction, and to report by bill or otherwise."

In presenting the resolution, Mr. Stevens had addressed the House of Representatives thus:

> "It being desirable that a committee on the subject of reconstruction should be appointed, I have consulted with several gentlemen as to whether we should revive the joint committee of fifteen or appoint a separate committee for this House. After consulting with my colleague on that committee, the gentleman from Ohio, [Mr. Bingham] and several Senators, they have all agreed that the most convenient method is for each House to appoint its separate committee...."

Accordingly, the Speaker of the House, on July 5, 1867, announced that he had appointed to the Select Committee on Reconstruction Representatives Thadeus Stevens (chairman); George S. Boutwell, of Massachusetts; John A. Bingham, of Ohio; John F. Farnsworth, of Illinois; Calvin T. Hulburd, of New York; Fernando C. Beaman, of Michigan; Halbert E. Paine, of Wisconsin; Frederick A. Pike, of Maine; and James Brooks, of New York

(see Appendix D for subsequent, revised lists of the members of the select committee). The select committee, on February 25, 1868, obtained leave to sit during sessions of the House of Representatives, in consequence of the adoption, by a vote of 105 to 36 (46 members not voting), of a resolution submitted by Representative Boutwell.

During the second session of the 40th Congress, the select committee submitted to the House of Representatives three reports, dealing with only a small part of its manifold activities. Representative Stevens died on August 11, 1868, shortly after the second session of the 40th Congress had ended. Representative Boutwell succeeded the late chairman.

On the first day of the 3rd session of the 40th Congress, the House of Representatives, by agreeing to two resolutions, directed the select committee to investigate the condition of public affairs in Virginia, Mississippi, Texas, and Georgia. A week later, on December 14, ~~1864,~~ 1868 the House of Representatives also directed the committee to investigate the "Ku Klu outrages... practiced upon peaceable and law-abiding citizens of the United States in the State of Tennessee and elsewhere." In addition, the select committee, on December 18, 1868, was authorized "to summon such witnesses to appear before them as the committee may deem necessary to enable them to report fully on the state of affairs in Georgia, Mississippi, Virginia, and Texas...." A still further enabling resolution, agreed to on January 6, 1869, authorized the select committee "to cause the report of General Gillem, and Appendices B and C attached thereto, relative to the election held in Mississippi, and also such testimony and statements in writing as they may take or receive relative to affairs in Mississippi, Georgia, Virginia, and Texas, under the references heretofore made to them, to be printed for the use of the House." Accordingly, the committee printed the testimony obtained on the conditions of affairs in Georgia and Mississippi as House Miscellaneous Document 52, 40th Congress, 3rd session, and as House Miscellaneous Document 53, 40th Congress, 3rd session, respectively.

On January 28, 1869, the House of Representatives, upon the adoption, by a vote of 128 to 34 (60 members not voting), of a resolution submitted by Representative Paine, imposed a still further task upon the members of the select committee:

> "Whereas it is provided by the reconstruction act, passed March 2, 1867, that until the people of the lately rebellious States shall be by law admitted to representation in Congress, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and that no persons shall be eligible to office in such provisional governments who are disqualified for office by the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States; and whereas it is reported that the legislature of Georgia has expelled the colored members thereof, and admitted to their seats white men who received minorities of votes at the polls, and that members of said legislature who had been elected thereto by the votes of colored men joined in such action, and that twenty-seven disqualified white men hold seats in said legislature in violation of the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution and of the reconstruction acts of Congress; and whereas senators from Georgia have not yet been admitted to the Senate of the United States: Therefore,

"Resolved, That the Committee on Reconstruction be ordered to inquire and report whether any, and if any, what, further action ought to be taken during the 40th Congress respecting the representation of Georgia in this House."

The life of the select committee, after a very active career, ended on March 3, ~~1867~~ 1869, when the 40th Congress passed into history. But at the beginning of the 41st Congress, on March 9, 1869, the House of Representatives voted to reconstitute the Select Committee on Reconstruction, by adopting (109 yeas, 43 nays, and 41 members not voting) the resolution submitted by Representative Boutwell, providing... "That there be appointed for the 41st Congress a select committee on reconstruction, to consist of thirteen members, under the same rules and regulations as governed the proceedings of the Reconstruction Committee in the last Congress; and that all the documents and resolutions before the Committee on Reconstruction of the last Congress yet undisposed of to be referred to them." Appointed by the Speaker to membership on the committee, on March 15, 1869, were Messrs. Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts (chairman); John F. Farnsworth, of Illinois; Fernando C. Beaman, of Michigan; Halbert E. Paine, of Wisconsin; Hamilton Ward, of New York; George W. Julian, of Indiana; Luke P. Poland, of Vermont; B. Frank Whittemore, of South Carolina; James B. Beck, of Kentucky; Fernando Wood, of New York; George W. Woodward, of Pennsylvania; and George W. Morgan, of Ohio (see Appendix D for further, revised lists of the membership of the select committee). Five days later the Senate established a comparable committee, which, known as the Select Committee on the Removal of Political Disabilities, functioned during the same Congress.

The House select committee maintained a fast pace of activities during the first and second sessions of the 41st Congress; on June 30, 1870, it submitted its fourth report to the House of Representatives.

The House of Representatives had scarcely assembled for the start of the third session of the 41st Congress when Representative Samuel S. Cox, of New York, sought, in vain, to abolish the select committee. The Congressional Globe, 41st Congress, 3d session, page 28, records this move, made on December 6, 1870, as follows:

"Mr Cox: I ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania to yield to me for a moment, that I may offer a resolution.

"Mr Stiles: I shall yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. Cox] but to nobody else.

"Mr. Cox: I desire to offer the following resolution:

"Whereas it is desirable to preserve the unity of the Republic and the harmony of this House; Therefore,

"Resolved, That the resolution creating the Committee on Reconstruction, and the same is hereby, rescinded, and the committee are hereby forever discharged.

"Mr. Kelsey: I object."

On February 20, 1871, the select committee sent its last report to the House. Upon the close of the last session of the 41st Congress, on March 3, 1871, the Select Committee on Reconstruction expired. Nor was the select committee reconstituted in the 42nd Congress, but the House of Representatives, early in the first session of the 42nd Congress, established another select committee, of thirteen members, titled the Select Committee to inquire into the condition of the late Insurrectionary States. To this committee, which shortly thereafter became a joint select body, were delegated certain functions which had been the responsibility of the antecedent committee.

Almost all of the records of the House Select Committee on Reconstruction, reflecting its primary concerns, fall into two large categories: (1) documents relating to applications for the Congressional removal of political disabilities imposed by the 14th Amendment and the reconstruction acts of Congress; (In particular, it should be noted that the committee entertained a myriad of petitions for the removal of political disabilities; the committee reported many a bill granting relief to such petitioners.) (2) documents dealing with the political, social, and economic conditions of the former Confederate States. The files of the Select Committee on Reconstruction, amounting to about 25 linear feet, are a part of Record Group 233, Records of the United States House of Representatives. ~~No person may examine, or receive information from the select committee's files, without the express authorization of the House of Representatives.~~

ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS. July 1867-Mar. 1871. 9 in. 1

The administrative records of the select committee consist of the following: committee memoranda, including drafts of bills; a volume of minutes for the 41st Congress; two docket books for the same Congress; two volumes listing names of persons whose political disabilities had been removed; a volume listing names of correspondents of the select committee, together with the numerical file symbols respectively assigned to their communications; and a volume partly duplicating the contents of the preceeding one, and also listing names of petitioners for the removal of their political disabilities, together with the numerical file symbols respectively assigned by the select committee to the supplications. In the latter two volumes the names of individuals and organizations are grouped alphabetically according to the initial letter of the individual's surname, or of the key word of the name of the organization.

Note: 3 folders, mainly dealing with KKK activity in Tennessee, were added to this box on 7/11/08 LEE (From Joint Comm. box)

PETITIONS AND OTHER DOCUMENTS CONCERNING THE REMOVAL OF POLITICAL DISABILITIES. July 1867-Mar. 1871. 17 ft. 2

Petitions, or letters, from residents of the former Confederate States, or from partisans of the Confederacy resident in border, Northern, or Western States, praying for the removal of the legal and political disabilities that had been imposed upon them by the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and by reconstruction acts of Congress; these precatory documents, in general filed individually in legal-size envelopes, usually carry endorsements of witnesses, written either on the document or on an accompanying sheet or sheets. On the face of many an envelope are listed the names of persons or organizations endorsing or opposing the prayer for relief enclosed therein. Other clerical notations, made either on the letter or petition, or on the face of its envelope, sometimes denote the disposition of the supplication. In addition, this segment of the committee's files include remonstrances to applications for relief, andalso the originals of private bills, referred to the select committee, for the relief of persons under disability. For a list of the titles of the records in this series, see Appendix A. See entry 9 for related papers. Moreover, the records of the Departments of State, War, and Justice include papers relating to executive pardons of adherents to the Confederacy issued during the administrations of Lincoln and Johnson.

PETITIONS ON VARIOUS SUBJECTS. Jan. 1868-Feb. 12, 1869. ½ in. 3

The petitions urge the award of a "leather medal" to Major General Hancock for his patriotism and other noble qualities, the repeal of the reconstruction laws, the prolongation of the second session of the 40th Congress, the award of damages to a widow for the death of her husband in the "Convention Riots" in New Orleans on July 30, 1866, and the enactment of a "Political Rights Bill." Arranged chronologically. For related papers, see entry 8.

PETITIONS RELATING TO THE POLICY OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON TOWARD THE SOUTHERN STATES. Feb. 1868-July 1868. ¼ in. 4

Petitions, mainly from Republican groups, favoring the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson, and, in two or three instances, sustaining the recusancy of Secretary of War Stanton. Arranged chronologically. See entry 9 for related papers.

PETITIONS RELATING TO AFFAIRS IN SOUTH CAROLINA. Dec. 1867-Jan. 1868. ½ in. 5

These petitions depict the conditions in the seaboard districts of South Carolina that had resulted from crop failures in two successive years; whereupon the petitioners call upon Congress to furnish food to the stricken areas until the next crop should be harvested. Arranged chronologically. For related papers, see entry 9.

PETITIONS RELATING TO TENNESSEE AFFAIRS. April 1869-Mar. 1870. ½ in. 6

Among the subjects dealt with by these petitions, from residents of Tennessee, are requests for Federal aid to loyal Unionists to enable them to remove from Tennessee, "Rebel" disorders (particularly in the election of August 1869), and opposition to proposals to substitute a military for the civil government in the State. Chronologically arranged. For related papers, see entry 9.

PETITIONS RELATING TO TEXAS AFFAIRS. Mar. 1868-July 1868. 1 in. 7

Printed petitions and memorials, the text of which is, almost without exception, identical, favoring the partition of Texas into 2 or more States. In addition, the file includes the resolutions of the Constitutional Convention of Texas relative to the "lawless" condition of affairs in the State. Arranged chronologically. For related papers see entry 9.

PETITIONS RELATING TO AFFAIRS IN VIRGINIA. Jan. 1868-Jan. 1870. ½ in. 8

In this file are five petitions: two urge the admission of the State of Virginia to representation in Congress; the rest deal with the submission of the Constitution framed by the Virginia Constitutional Convention to the people for ratification, and with other aspects of the reconstruction era in Virginia. Arranged chronologically. See entry 9 for related papers.

COMMITTEE PAPERS. July 1867-Feb. 1871. 7 ft. 9

In the course of its activities the select committee received many letters from private individuals, from Federal and State officials, from military men, and from members of Congress, offering information and opinions on the condition of affairs in the Southern and border States, or suggesting courses of action by the committee or by Congress in the treatment of the former Confederate States. These communications comprise the bulk of the records in this category of the select committee's files; the rest of the records are like those found in the other series, viz., entries 1, 2, etc. Arranged in part according to a numerical scheme, the nature of which is unfolded in Appendix B; and in part unarranged. For a list of the titles (recorded verbatim or paraphrased) of the documents in this series, see Appendix B.
